SUDDEN DEATH OF THE POSTMAS-TER-GENERAL AT KENOSHA.

relangular Race for the Senate from Wisconsin-The serious Illness of Secretary Fre-linghuysen-President Indispused, WASHINGTON, March 26 .- President Authur received Sunday evening telegraphic information of the sudden death, at his home in Wisconsin, of Postmaster-General Howe. In consequence of the unexpected event the dinner which was to be given on Tuesday by the president to ex-President Diaz, of Mexico, and reception to the distinguished guest by Secreretary Frelinghuysen, will not take place. Secretary Howe died at 2:20 Sunday afternoon at the residence of his nephew, Colonel James H. Howe. He contracted a severe cold a week ago at Green Bay, and returned to Kenosha. He was very ill till Saturday, when he seemed to improve. His physicians pronounced it pneumonia. He was taken worse Saturday night and sank rapidly, passing away peacefully Sunday afternoon. Mr. Howe was born at Livermore, Maine, February 24, 1816, and after receiving an academic education studied law, and was admit-ted to the bar. He was a member of the leg-islature of the state of Maine in 1845, in the latter part of which year he moved to Wis-consin, where he was elected judge of the circuit and supreme courts. He was elected to the United States senate as a union republican to succeed Charles Durkee, and took his seat in 1861. He was re-elected to the senate in 1867 and 1873, during these eighteen years In 1807 and 1875, during tasse eighteen years holding important committee positions and being one of the most prominent and influential members of the body. His term of office expired March 3, 1879. The famous triangular contest in which the election of his successor was involved, and in which Judge Howe, E. W. volved, and in which Judge Howe, E. W. Keys and Matt. Carpenter were participants in the contest, which finally ended in the election of Mr. Carpenter, will be recailed. Judge Howe then retired to Green Bay, where he had made his home since his removal to this state. He was not permitted, however, to remain long in retirement, and was tendered by President Garfield the appointment as a member of the board of commissioners sent by the United States to represent this government in the international monetary congress at Paris, his associates being ex-Senator Thurman, of Ohio, and William M. Evarts, of New York. He remained abroad about six months, York. He remained abroad about six months and soon after his return, began to be promi-nently mentioned as a possible member of President Arthur's cabinet. In December, 1881, he was tendered the postmaster general ship, which he accepted and to the duties of which he has since devoted his atof which he has since devoted his attention. He strongly favored the reduction of postage made by last congress, and has been largely instrumental in securing improved mail facilities throughout the country. Mr. Howe's illness was the result of a severe cold contracted by walking half a mile through a bad storm at Green Bay, last Sunday, which, on arrival at Kenosha on Monday, developed into pneumonia. Dr. Isham, of Chicago, was called in, and under his care he improved, but last night a change for the he improved, but last night a change for the he improved, but last night a change for the worse ensued, and the absent members of his family were sent for, his daughter arriving from Washington at 11 o'clock. Up to that hour he was conscious, but his mind after that wandered, and at 2:20 p m., he passed away without a struggle. The funeral will occur at Green Bay, but no arrangement has set been reade.

FOLGER'S PHYSICAL FAILURE.

His Head Swollen up with Eryslpelas—The President to Swing the Circle. Washington, March 26.—Folger's physi-cian reported at a late hour Sunday night that the condition of his patient is much im

The disease is aggravated by lowered vitality and an impoverished condition of the blood, due to overwork and imperfect nutrition; but it is not thought that there is as yet any reason for especial appre-The president, who needs rest, but who is

THE CRANK SEASON.

Eccentric Prople in Search of Office-Their Idlosyn-eracies Noted. Washington, March 26.—The crank season seems to have fairly opened at the white house. Yesterday no less than four put in an appearance, demanding to see the president on various topics. Some wanted appointments, others had a special mission to perform. One of the latter class gave his name as John Meehan. He announced himself as "Guiteau II." "How is that?" asked the doorkearer to whom he thus presented the doorkeeper, to whom he thus presented his intrusting credentials.

"Well, that's what they call me," he answered, "and I want to see the president?"

"What do you want of the president?"

"Well," he answered slowly, "I want to tell him about Secretary Stanton. You see the fact is Stanton was murdered. He never committed suicide, as was supposed. He was killed, and I know the names of his murderers. I want to talk with the president about it"—and he made a break across the vestibule and had nearly succeeded in entering the and had nearly succeeded in entering the hallway leading to the president's dining room before he could be stopped and brought Randall Pulling the Wires to Secure the Gavel of the Forty-Eighth Congress.

Washington, March 26 — Ex Speaker Randall is in the city, and it is said is here to consult with the various statesmen who linger here with reference to the speakership election. Mr. Holman, of Indiana, is here also, and is likewise a candidate for the chair of the next house. It is rumored that an effort is being made by Mr. Randall to absorb the Indiana candidate, and his forces are said to consist of his own delegation. If the contest is to be settled upon the tariff issue it is understood Mr. Randall's platform is to let the subject severely alone, while the adherents subject severely alone, while the adherents of his chief competitor, Mr. Carlisle, declare that the salvation of the democracy consists in a revision of the list from top to bottom.

Ingersoll Grows Blasphemous in Court-Dorsey Gues-sing Ris Evidence. Washington, March 26 .- In the star route trial to-day, after considerable time had been spent upon a number of unimportant wit-nesses, Stephen W. Dorsey took the stand. The clerk was about to administer the usual oath when Mr. Merrick rose and asked peroath when Mr. Merrick rose and asked permission from the court to cross-examine the witness regarding his belief in its binding force. FLOATING IN THE WATER.

A Ghastly Di-covery on Entering the Mouth of the Braidwood Mine. Braidwood, Ill., March 26.—Early Saturday morning, the pit boss of the diamond mine descended to the bottom, and after exploring for a short distance in different directions, finding several places where the mine had caved in from the effect of soaking by water, discovered black damp plentiful, and went to the south working, which he found in better condition than the others. Five steps from the starting point he discovered the body of one of the drowned miners, water-soaked and bloated beyond recognition, and a little further on he found another in the same condition. Without proceeding further same condition. Without proceeding further be returned to the surface, and on consultation it was decided to keep the matter quiet from the large crowds assembling. Nine bodies of the miners who lost their lives by the catas-trophe of February 16th were brought to the surface last night. Three of the bodies have surface last night. Three of the bodies have been identified. The first recognition was that of Patrick Wall-by his little son. The others were William Johnson and John Huber. The bodies were all in such condition that identification was difficult. The crowd around the mine is nearly as great as on the day following the accident, but is orderly. The interior of the mine is badly obstructed by partial caving, and the work of extracting the bodies was one of great labor. Further search will be prosecuted vigorously.

They demand an advance from $30, their present wages, to $50 per month, which the stock men refuse to pay. The cowboys threaten violence to the new men if they are brought into the ranches. The cattle owners will call upon the state forces to protect them, if their own means fail. It is a very critical time for such trouble, as preparations for the season's drive are at hand, and efforts are being made to compromise the matter.

VANDERBILT'S BALL.

THE GREAT BALL OF THE MILLION-AIRES LAST NIGHT.

Profusion of Flowers, Gorgsous Music, Costum that Dezzied the Eye, and of Laces, Diamonds and Jewelry-The World Levied upon to Entertain the Millionaire's Guests.

New YORK, March 26,-The grand ball given by the Vanderbilis is in progress, and is a blaze of light and gilded costume. All the nurseries on Long Island and in New Jersey were taxed to their utmost to supply sufficient roses and lilies, violets and pansies for the occasion, the drain being double at present, with Easter at hand. The florist Klunder put $20,000 worth of flowers into the building. He began decorating this morning, before any of the guests of the evening were thinking of arising. Large vases of tropical plants, Australian palms, India rubber plants and tall ferns were placed in the vast square hallways, and also on the landings of the stair cases. Hanging baskets, filled with roses and smilax, depended from the ceiling and doorway. One of the special features in the floral decoration was a huge bank of imported roses, several feet high, which was placed at one end of the ballroom, where its beauty was reflected in the shining and slippery floor. The grand staircase and the walls of the mansion are entirely of rare marble, in some rooms plain, in others carved in various fantastic designs. Thus it was impossible to deck the walls, but the balustrade and newel rail were hidden in the rarest roses, and about the drawing rooms and ball-room were placed huge jardinieres of Japanese and Perplaced huge jardinieres of Japanese and Fersian workmanship, filled with flowers, principally roses. Most of the roses used in the decorations were imported. Beautiful blush and Spanish roses, almost as large as a small cabbage, fragrant Bon Silene and Mermet, the pure white Morrison and Niphetos buds, as well as the brilrison and Niphetos buds, as well as the brilliant Jacqueminot and Douglas rose, were used in great profusion, their bright beauty showing in relief against the marble of the

The hunting quadrille was danced by well known members of the Lunts and ladies known as fine borsewomen. The ladies wore short Di Vernon riding habits and Vanderbilt appeared 's a Roman lady, and wore a costume of blue and white satin embroidered in gold. Lady Mandeville represented "A Noble Lady," by Ru-bens. Her costume was black, with slashed sleeves, and a large hat with long plumes. Miss Ada Smith's costume was of peacock feathers. Miss Jean Tur-nure wore the dress of an Egyptian princess. The skirt was of white satin, heavily embroidered in gold, with a long train. The bodice was low, and completely covered with gold coins. The veil was of gold gauze, and she carried a fan of ostrich feathers. Miss Lucy represented Joan of Arc, and was dressed in chain armor. Supper was served in the grand banquet rooms on the first floor. Here the floral decorations were on a smaller scale than up sairs. The supper was entirely gotten up by the Vanderbilt corps of cooks, and their own large and efficient staff of waiters served the guests. The linen, silver and china services were most exquisite, and represented the best and rarest workmanship of many best and rarest workmanship of many countries. one of the many indictments against him this morning. He pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary, the highest penalty. Other indictments remain to be heard.

A little uneasiness was created by a rumor which has been current here for two or three days that an organized attempt by socialists would be made to break up the bail by throwing bombs through the windows. The rumor took definite shape to-day for the first time, and was generally discussed among society people, the members of different sets having heard the same story. It is said the piot originated with Herr Most and his followers, and was intended in revenge for the discharge by Mr. Vanderbilt of a large number of brakemen and laborers on the New York Central railroad. It was also said that Mr. Vanderbilt's house had been carefully examined because of a rumor that it had been undermined. The reports were not believed, but they undoubtedly had the effect of making it uncomfortable, as many persons, especially women, expressed their intention of not believed the pall.

women, expressed their intention of not being present at the ball.

The cost of the ball is estimated at the great smn of $50,000, which is equal to the enlarged annual salary of the president of the United States. That amount, it is thought, "will not more than cover the cost of the entertainment." The value of the contents of the house of the millionaire who gave the ball, "including turniture, pictures, brica-brac and jewels worn by his family and friends, will be not less than $5,000,000." One item of champagne alone, by Mr. Vanderbilt's own calculation, amounted to nearly $2,000. The $2,000 worth of champagne and the $5,000,000 worth of furniture, jewels, garments and pictures were alone enough to draw a crowd.

DUKES'S BANISHMENT.

A Committee of Citizens Notify Him That it is Healthier Elsewhere—The Jurymen Persecuted. Priviseling March 26.—A special to the Chronicle from Uniontown, Pa., says that N. L. Dukes arrived there from his step-father's last night, and this morning a committee of citizens waited on him and presented him with the resolutions adopted at an indignation committee lately held. They also notified him that he would have twenty-four hours within which to transact his business and leave the town. If he attempts to remain it is thought that there will be trouble. Sergeant-at-Arms Bolan, of the house of representatives arrived here, this morning with a formal notice to Dukes from the Dukes sub-committee, to notify him that he may appear before that body on Tuesday next, to answer to certain charges against him if he sees proper. Yesterday a gentleman visited Dukes. He and Dukes had been boys together. He said he intended to remain in Fayette county, and remarked: "My whole life is blasted. I can expect nothing now but shame. As to going to Harrisburg, I never thought of such a thing." He said that he considered the verdict a just one, according to the evidence, but said that if he had been on trial for being a d—d fool he would have been undoubtedly convicted.

CHATTANOOGA'S CHARTER.

An Attempt to Compromise Conflicting Interests the City. Special to The Constitution.

Special to The Constitution.

Chattanooga, March 26.—A few democrats and republicans met this evening and tried to compromise the differences in the movement to repeal the charter of Chattanooga. About fifty were present.

Resolutions were passed asking for the registration laws, combining the office of mayor and recorder, reducing the number of aldermen to six, to be elected by the whole city and to create a board of police commissioners to be appointed by the governor. Telegrams from Nashville say Mayor Evans will not acceed to the compromise proposition, in which to the compromise proposition, in which event the bill to repeal the city charter will probably pass the general assembly. A number of citizens heretofore opposed to the repeal to-day declared in favor of it. Considerable excitement prevails, but the best of order. Everybody wants to reform. The only question is "how?"

THE PURIM BALL.

An Occasion of Brilliance at Concordia Last Night— What Purim Is.

One of the most beautiful of all the beautiful fe s tivals in the Jewish church is that of Purim, which our Jewish fellow citizens have been celebrating yesterday and last night. The celebration of this sacred event in Atlanta must have been one of the most impressive in the country. The Purim ball that was given at the Concordia hall last night was in all respects one of the leading social events of the season. But before we come to the ball a few words may be said so to the country.

of the leading social events of the season. But before we come to the ball a few words may be said as to its occasion.

The feast of Purim, celebrated as a religious observance ou the 14th of the Hebrew month, Adar, is founded on the events recorded in the book of Esther, and commenced Thursday and closed Friday evening. This book is not only admitted into the canon of Holy Writ, but like the roll of the law is written with the utmost exactitude on vellum and read tothe assembled congregation as a portion of the service. It is a singular fact that the text has remained unchanged since it was written, for the name of the Diety (by any of his appellations) is no where expressed in the book, although many references are made to the sacred name; as well in sense as in anagram, as does likewise the religious spirit that pervades the whole. It seems as if it were written under the immediate eye of Abasucrus and incorporated into the royal records of the Persians who, as the followers of Zoroaster, might not have been disposed to acknowledge the superiority of the true God. To commemorate this feast the Jewish congregations assemble at the synagogue in the evening to listen to the reading of the Book of Esther. The reading is repeated during the day, and prayers and thanksgivings added to the same. The affuent distribute alms to their poorer brethren. No Jew (except the poorest, who is forced to accept charity) permits the day to pass withou giving some proof of his liberality. Such is the festival of Purim, a feast of gratitude, love and charity, not only a memorfal to Israel, but likewise a testimony to all the nations of the earch, in the midst of whom they have found a refuge, that a just and wise providence protects the innocent and punishes the oppressor, and that it is not a blind haulity, but a righteous God who governs the universe.

fa-ality, but a lighteous God who governs the universe.

The Purim ball in Atlanta last night at Concordia hall was one of the handsomest of the season. It reflected great credit on the managers. The following were the dances:

Grand March. 1. Lancers. 2 Waltz. 3. Polka. 4. Lancers. 5. Waltz. 6. Varieties. 7. Polka. 8. Lancers. 9. Trois Temps. 10. Varieties. 11. Waltz. 12 Lancers. 13. Racquet 14. Varieties. 15. Waltz. 16. Lancers. 17. Polka.

Messrs. Joe Fleishel, G. A. Dewald, Max Kutz, Jacob Selig and Jake Menko were the executive committee of the occasion, and did their duty well. At 12 o'clock the entire party present at the ball were invited to a repast full of all the possible luxuries of the season and enough to wash them down. The festivities of the evening were highly enjoyed by all who were present, and the Purim ball of last evening will be long remembered by all who were present. It was graced by a large number of the best young men and the handsomest young ladies in Atlanta.

A Joke on a Well-Digger.

From the Wrightsville, Ga., Recorder, The following is a good one, which shows the wit of Bill, who was engaged by a well-digger to draw out the dirt, was related as true, by a clever and genial gentleman of this place: "Some time ago there lived in Jef-ferson county, a colored well-digger who had a blind horse named Dave, on whose neck he a blind horse named bave, on whose neck he kept a large bell so that he might easily find him. On one occasion as Bill was drawing the dirt from a deep well, in which the negro was hard at work, and seeing blind Dave near thought of a good plan to frighteen him, and for an excuse, told him that he was going after water. He went and took the bell from the borse's neek and began to walk around the horse's neck and began to walk around the horse's neck and began to walk around the well rattling it. The man in the well, thinking it the blind horse, (Dave) began to cryaloud: "You Dave, go away from there. Dave, Dave, go, Dave, Dave, G—d d—n you leave there. Oh! Bill, Bill, run old Dave, from the well." There were no steps to the well by which the negro could escape, so Bill would push a small quantity of dirt, at the same time keeping up a continual tinking of the bell. This had the desired effect. It frightened the well-digger so badly that he frightened the well-digger so badly that he began to pray: 'Oh! Lord, you know that I began to pray: 'Oh! Lord, you know that I have ever been subject to prayer. Davie, go away from there. Go away Davie, Davie, Dave, you G - d d—d blind, yeller devil, you, do get him away, Bill. Davie, go away."

Protecting the Lambs,

From the Columbus, Ga., Sun. One of the most touching and affectionate little scenes I have witnessed in a long time was enacted the other evening below the Eagle and Phenix mills. Having been informed there was a little, helpless lamb on the river bank, deserted by its mother and subject to the cruelties peculiar to the mas-culine sex of degraded humanity, I sauntered along in that direction, in company with two ladies, until we came near the spot where the little sheep had been forsaken. We looked little sheep had been forsaken. We looked and saw it, near the edge of the river, not in the act of being thrown into the mad, turbuthe act of being thrown into the mad, turbu-lent waters by some heartless wretch, but on each side sat a little angel girl administering milk to the poor little animal so often refer-red to as a symbol of purity. A fine hand-kerchief was sacrificed by one of the little "lambs," and dampened with milk and put into the little sheep's mouth. After they had fed it sufficiently, the little girls wrapped their present whose fleece had become staintheir present, whose fleece had become stained from neglect, in a fine cloak, and the last I saw of them they were on their way home, their hearts light and joyful with bright an-ticipations of pleasure with the little lamb they bore in their arms.

Cotton Receipts at Talbotton

from the Talbotton, Ga., New Era. Up to last Saturday night there had been sold and delivered from our railroad depot five hundred and eighty-five tons of commercial fertilizers, or guano, since January 1st, being an increase of something over one hun-dred tons over same date last year. It is es-timated that one thousand tons will be sold here during the season. This will take out of the county one thousand bales of cotton of 450 lbs eachor 450,000 pounds of cotton, which valued at 9 cents per pound, makes the sum of $40,500.00. The question is: Will the one thousand tons of guano bring into the county He is now building an additional of $40,500.00. An Anxious Maiden.

From the Savannah, Ga., Times. A Georgia maiden became so interested in a recent church wedding at that place that just as the clergyman had finished his list of questions to the bride, she unconscously took up the response and answered, "I will" in place of the bride. This unexpected event paralyzed the minister and caused a painfu silence in the audience.

A Scarcity of Negroes From the Wrightsville, Ga., Recorder.

In Smith's district, there are but two negro amilies. For seven years previous to this only one. We would be exceedingly glad if we could trathfully say that such was the case in every district in this county; and more so, if it was the case throughout Geor-gia; and still more so, if it was the case all over the United States.

Thomasville Times: On Monday quite an excitement was created on the lower end of Broad street opposite the store of Mr. J. J. Stephens, by the finding a lot of gold coin. Five ten dollar gold pieces were picked up by various parties. Soon a large crowd gathered and the search for the precious metal was continued during the day by colored boys and others, but the mine was evidently exhausted, as no more gold was found. The coins were found in the street very near the sidewalk. We learn that Mr. Malcom Peacock lost, last October, $70 in gold, five ten dollar and one twenty dollar piece. The street has been worked and raked over often where the gold was found, but it never came to light until this week, For awhile the excitement in the neighborhood rivalled the great gold excitement in California, in 1849.

Biliousness and Bilious Patients. Pertaining to Bile, Billous Symptoms, Ellious Temperaments. THE REMEDY. The Bilious, is a disorder of the human system. A technical definition of the ce m s this: "Pertaining to the bile; disordered in respect to the bile; as, a bilious patient: dependant on an excess of bile; as, bilious tempera nent; bilious symptoms. The word bile, when employed in the sense in which it is understood in this article, signifies, according to the Dic ionaries, "a yellow, greenish, bitter, viscid, nauseous fluid secreted by the liver." "Any derangement of the bile at once manifests itself in great bodily discomfort, in loss of appetite, and in despondency," recently remarked an author of a valuable treatise upon this subject.

The same writer further adds: "Some of the following symptoms are usually prominent: Pain in the right side, which is very ensitive to pressure. The pain will some times appear to be located under the shoulder blade. There is also irregular appetite, flatulence, a sense of fullness in the region of the stomach, and, sooner or later, the skin and whites of the eyes become yellow, the stools clay-colored and the urine yellow, depositing a copious sediment." The balance of the too familiar train of ilis needs no further mention here. The bilious is, as will be seen, is an affliction of great magnitude, and of varied forms of direct and indirect appearance. The disease is no respecter of persons or localities. Its deadly and implacable enemy is found in KIDNEY WORT. It acts on the liver and kidneys at the same time, and by its mild but efficient cathartic effects moves the bowels freely. The morbid poisons that have been the cause of all this disease and suffering will be thrown off; new life will be infused into every organ, and nature, thus aided, will soon restore the patient to health.

Physicians of repute and standing, men who are honored for their probity, and respected and trusted for their scientific attainments, are using Kidney-Wort in their practice regularly. No stronger evidence of the worth of the remedy would seem to be necessary. Such endorsements are few and far between. We had almost said that they were without precedent in the his ory of a proprietary remedy. Be that as it may, however, the fact remains established that Kidney-Wort is a matchless remedy, and one that needs only to be tested to demonstrate its rare merit as a healer of most of the common maladies of the human family.

lives in Monkton, Vt. Under date of April 20th, 1882, the doctor wrote to the proprietors of Kidney Wort, and said, among other things; "Nearly a year ago I wrote you about the success I had had in the use of Kidney-Wort in my practice. The past year I have used it more than ever, and with the best results. It entered Mr. Ethan Lawrence of the sults. It cured Mr. Ethan Lawrence, of this town, of a terrible case of bloated kidney disorder. I have also treated many other diseases successfully with it. Constipation, in all its forms, yields to it, and in rheumatic affections I have known it to give almost immediate relief. In female disorders it is equally successful. Take it all in all it is the most wonderful medicine I have ever used." Dr. Ballou does not stand alone in his experience with this remedy. R. K. Clark, M. D., of South Hero, Vt., says: "Kidney-Wort does all that is claimed for it." Whilst Dr. C. M. Summerlin, of Sun Hill, Washington Co., Georgia, says, in a nut shell: "Kidney-Wort cured my wife when my own and other physicians, prescriptions only pallisted has cured my wife when my own and other phy-sicians' prescriptions only palliated her grou-

THE SURPRISE OF THE FUCITIVE PRESIDENT IN IRWIN COUNTY.

What a Philadelphian Says of His Part in the Famous Man's Arrest-No Feminine Apparel Seen that Occasion-A Circumstanual Account of the Surprise and Quick Scieure.

From the Philadelphia Times.

Kaspar Knobel, the first man to lay hands on Jefferson Davis when the latter was a fugitive, after the downfall of the confederate government, now lives in Philadelphia. At the time of the capture Mr. Knobe! was a private in the Fourth Michigan cavalry. His narrative, which was contributed to the Weekly Times of this date, is as follows:

On the evening of the 7th of May, 1865, the Fourth Michigan cavalry regiment, to which I belonged, was ordered to start immediately, without knowing whither or why. We rode on the whole night, only making a short pause to take a lunch. We did likewise the following day, but had in the evening to take refuge from a thunder storm in some woods, where we sought to shield ourselves in the best possible manner ag inst the inclemency of the weather. The next morning, somewhere between nine and ten o'clock, we met a vehicle with only three wheels, driven by a colored man. Colonel Pritchard bade him halt and answer our questions. He told us he had failen in with a troop of "yankees"—it became evident he did not know the difference between union and confederate soldiers—who had taken a wheel from his waren probably to prepent wheel from his wagon, probably to prevent him from revealing their flight too quickly, for, as he said, it was a sure thing that they

for, as he said, it was a sure thing that they were trying to escape.

Such was the story of the negro, and now the reason for our being engaged in this exciting chase flashed upon us—that we were hunting for no less noble prey than the beaten leader of the confederacy, on whose head the government had set a large prize. Our commander, as a matter of course took notes of this statement and ascertained the exact place where the meeting had taken place. Then we were ordered to hold ourselves in readiness. A harder work than we had yet readiness. A harder work than we had yet done was impending. Those who had confidence in themselves and their horses or a further ride of forty or fifty miles were told to announce themselves. One hundred and twenty-eight men idd so, I among them, and twenty-eight men fold so, I among them, and we started. Twelve o'clock at night, between the 9th and 10th of May, we arrived at Irwins-ville, Irwin county, Georgia, where Davis, ac-cording to all probability, was to be found. THE CAMP DISCOVERED.

In whispered tones we were ordered to dis-tribute ourselves in groups of thirteen in all directions and be on the lookout for all sus picious persons in the place. The group to which I belonged, after having ridden on for nearly a mile, discovered a camp fire in a southwestern direction, which was near extinction—a very suspicious circumstance—that made our hearts beat quicker with joyous anticipation. It being, however, yet dark we could do nothing else for the present than impatiently wait for the dawn at day. The tastern sky had for the dawn of day. The eastern sky had scarcely reddened before we advanced as noislessly as possible and almost sumbled over two tents, whose inmates evidently were yet slumbering and who thus could be easily surprised. I was foremost in entering one of these tents, and sure enough found the fugitive and his family lying there in profound sleep.

Jefferson Davis rested in a gray costume on the left side of the tent. As soon as he was awake and had comprehended the situation he tried, evidently for the purpose of conhe tried, evidently for the purpose of con-cealment, to cover himself with something— I cannot at this time tell exactly what, but of resistance he offered none at all. I then hur-ried to the other tent, where I found a part of the staff of the confederate leader. Here, also, perfect quietude reigned, easily explain-able by the exertions and excitement inci-dent to their flight. They were surprised of the extent that I tore away a saddle from under the head of one of the sleeping officers and they all surrendered unconditionally, without offering the least resistance. without offering the least resistance. FIRED UPON BY FRIENDS.

Not until the capture of Davis and his associates had been thus accomplished was the signal shot that had been agreed upon the previous night fired, which soon brought Coionel Prichard and his companions to the scene of action. This shot, however, was, to our great astonishment, at once responded to by a heavy fire from the neighboring woods, which fire, we, of course, answered. By this skirmish we had one young man killed, his heart being pierced by a bullet, and one wounded. Our astonishment increased greatly when we took one of our assailants a prisoner and discovered that he belonged, like ourselves, to the union army. They formed, in fact, a part of the First Wisconsin cavalry regiment, and had, like ourselves, arrived the evening before in the neighborhood of Irwinsville without knowing or having the slightest idea of the presence of Davis, still less of our own The victims of this fatal encounter were buried with military honors. We had a breakfast, to us, as a matter of course, a very joyous one, in which Jefferson Davis and our other prisoners participated, and then we rode back to headquarters. a heavy fire from the neighboring woods

THE COMMON STORY UNTRUE. Such is the true history of the capture of Jefferson Davis, and as every one can see, it differs materially from the commonly accept ed story, not alone in respect to the feminine apparel and the bowieknife, but also in regard to the short encounter between union soldiers, which furnished, so to speak, the last victims on the altar of the ambition of the relic of this affair in my possession.

After having entered the tent of Davis and accomplished his capture a traveling bag was found among what little baggage there was, containing a shirt and three col lars, besides children's soiled linen. These naturally became interesting spoils for the soldiers, who distributed them samong themselves. One of these collars is still in my possession. The collar, which, for good and sufficient reasons, at this time has no very class leads bear this traced inscription.

summent reasons, at this time has no very clean look, bears this proud inscription:

"This collar was worn by Jefferson Davis at the time he was made prisoner of war. May 10, 1865, and was taken from him by Kaspar Knobel, private of company A, fourth regiment, Michigan cavalry, at Irwinsville, Irwin county, Ga.

DIPHTHERIA HAS NO CHANCE

WHEN TREATED WITH Perry Davis's Pain Killer

This wonderful remedy has saved the lives of many, many children who were almost dead with DIPHTHERIA.

8. Henry Wilson, Lawrence, Mass, says:
"The surseons pronounced my case Dipheria, and decided that no remedies could reach it. Perry Davis's Pain Killer saved my life."

Libeous Leach, Nashua, N. H., says: "I had painters' colic and diphtheretic screethreat very severely. Pain Killer drove both away."

DRUGGISTS ALL KEEP IT.

VUTT'S EXPECTORANT

Is composed of Herbal and Mucilaginous products, which permeate the substance of the Langs, expectorates the acrid matter that collects in the Bronchial Tubes, and forms a soothing conding, which relieves the irritation that causes the cough. It cleanses the lungs of all impurities, strengthens them when enfectiled by disease, invigorates the circulation of the blood, and braces the nervous system. Slight colds often end in consumption. It is dangerous to neglect them. Apply the remedy promptly. A testof twenty years warrants the assertion that no remedy has ever been found that is as prompt in its effects as TUTT'S EMPECTORANT. A single dose raises the phlegm, subdues inflammation, and its use speedily cures the most obtinate ough. A pleasant cordial, children take it readily. For Croup it is invaluable and should be in every family.

Cures chills and Fever, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Billious Colic, Constipation, Eheumatism, Files, Palpitation of the Heart, Dizziness, Torpoid Liver, and Female Irregularities. If you do not 'feel very well,' a single pill stimulates the stomach, restores the appetite, imparts vigor to the system.

Pestores the appetite, imparts vigor to the system.

NERO fiddled while Rome burned. Vanderbilt feasts while New York starves. So in every age the contrasts are made, growing sharper, if anything, as the world grows older.

THE sad death of Charles O. Lamotte, of the Savannah News, will be sincerely regretted. He belonged to the elder members of the Georgia press, and with his juniors was always highly regarded.

THE observance of Easter in Atlanta was marked by impressive and elaborate services at the different churches, as well as by many social reunions. Notwithstanding the severity of the weather, the churches were well filled. It is evident that the popular observance of Easter and Christmas is becoming more general every year.

The death of the postmaster-general is sudden announcement. He was a man thoroughly encrusted in all the prejudices of republicanism, and his appointment to succeed Postmaster-General James was simply a sop thrown to the republicans of Wisconsin As a private gentleman he was undoubtedly worthy, but as a public official he was a fail-

THE NEXT SPEAKERSHIP. The forty-eighth congress must have speaker, and when the democratic majority of the house selects the man it will practically declare what the position of the party shall be in the presidential canvass on the great questions of revenue, and it will also determine whether or no the work of revenue reform shall be proceeded with. single act of the next congress will be of deeper interest or graver meaning. If Mr. Randall becomes speaker, what follows? The democratic party will not only be irretrievably committed to the Pennsylvania idea, but the house committees will be so made up that the house will be as fully under the control of the coal, iron, steel and pottery barons as the senate or the executive mansion. The work of revenue reform would be more than impeded-it would be ended until a new congress be elected. If Mr. Carlisle on the other hand becomes speaker, measures looking to a reduction of taxation and to the simplification and adjustment of the tariff would be proposed, and some of the propositions would so commend themselves to the country that neither the senate nor the president would be willing to go on record against extravagant proposition No could become law, but a reasonable tariff bill in the light of new facts could and therefore should be pressed to a final vote. The surplus revenue may be fully as grea next year as it has been this year, and if Mr. Randall becomes speaker there will absolutely be no chance to pass a bill that would give the people any real relief; for he is hopelessly imbued with high tariff ideas. His constituents are almost to a man protectionists. Mr. Carlisle, on the other hand, is a tariff reformer, who wants the burdens of people reduced just so far as the needs of the government will permit. Can we afford as democrats who desire success in 1884, to accept the Pennsylvania idea. thus closing the doors of congress against all reductions of taxation, and reject a plan of reform that is at least harmless-that in ight be of great benefit to the people-and that would keep the issue alive in the hearts of the people? This is one of the questions involved in the selection of a speaker. No matter what Mr. Randall friends may claim he is by association and choice wholly committed to the monopolists, and if he is permitted to organize a ways and means committee, he will present us with one that will prove wholly obstructive, or if it should take any positive action would outdo even Mr. Keifer's remarkable combination of the late congress. A WORD IN SEASON.

It is definitely settled that the deplorable tactics which prevailed during the last two gubernatorial campaigns are to be repeated at a time when the public sentiment of the state is opposed to anything like a contest. There is, in fact, no necessity for a contest, and absolutely no excuse for the unseemly fracas which seems to be developing in cer tain quarters, but those who have concluded to renew the tactics to which we allude seem to think otherwise, and upon them the re onsibility must rest.

But why should such tactics be renewed a his time? They have led promptly to defeat n every campaign where they have been used, and they are more obnoxious to the good sense and conservatism of the state than ever before. Why, then, should they be renewed at this time? It has been demon strated, whenever the experiment has been made, that the people of the state-the great democratic majority that never allows itself to become confused by the arguments of politicians and newspapers-will not tolerate such tactics, and their renewal at this time must serve to convince any impartial man that a deliberate attempt is to be made to divide and disorganize the democratic party. When Governor Colquitt was a candidate for re-election, the same tactics were employed. He was made the victim of the vilest abuse. Charges were made against his character and his integrity; his religion was made the subject of sneers, and he was described in terms that could only be truthfully applied to men who are utterly without honor or principle. Did this attempt to drag Governor Colquitt down because he stood in the way of another man's ambition have any effect upon the people of Georgia? Not the slightest. On the contrary, they felt bound to show their confidence in him, and on the day of election they went to the polls and cast their votes for

When Mr. Stephens was made a candidate the representatives of the small faction that had attempted to drag down Governor Colquitt made a series of assaults upon the old commoner-assaults upon his character and ntegrity. They declared that he was the tool of an Atlanta ring, that he was not a democrat, and that he had made false statements in order to secure his nomination. These assaults upon the character and intentions of one of the purest men Georgia ever produced had no effect upon the democratic people of the state. They went forward and elected Mr. Stephens by an overwhelming majority, and if there had been anything like a serious contest the majority would have

As we have said these tactics have been reewed. The partisans of Mr. Bacon seem to be of the opinion that it is necessary to pull down somebody in order to advance the interests of their candidate, and they have conluded that Governor Boynton is the man to be pulled down. But the question is, are such tactics likely to advance Mr. Bacon's interests? They have failed heretofore, and it may be that they will fail again. Where is the pulling down to stop? So far as the partisans of Mr. Bacon are concerned, matters are more complicated than they have ever been. After Boynton is pulled down and disgraced in the eyes of the people (supposing that such questionable tactics can produce this result) then there is McDaniel to be pulled down and dis. graced; and after this has been accomplished, then there is W. E. Smith to be pulled down and disgraced; and so on through a long list of available men in whom the people have the utmost confidence.

THE CONSTITUTION is for neither Boynton nor Bacon: but it is for the democratic party for democratic harmony. From this stand point it does not hesitate to advise the friends of Mr. Bacon to forego a repetition of the foolish tactics which have already proved so abortive. They should bear in mind that the people in selecting a successor to Mr. Stephens are not compelled to choose either Bacon or Boynton, and if we may be permitted to say so, attacks upon Mr. Boynton are not calculated to advance the interests of Mr. Bacon before the convention.

Moreover (and it is in this phase of the matter The Constitution is chiefly interested). such attacks are not calculated to increase democratic harmony; indeed we may say that if the tactics of abuse and vilification are to be indulged in every time an important office is to be filled, there can be no such thing as democratic harmony. We do not hesitate, therefore, to advise the friends of Mr. Bacon to avoid such unseemly efforts.

THE CROP PROSPECT. The people of the Pacific slope sowed wheat and barley hoping to have this year a surplus that had never been exceeded. During the last fiscal year their exports of wheat amounted to 49,187,500 bushels, or about onethird our entire exports of wheat. These immense figures the people of California and Oregon proposed to exceed this year: but just now they are in doubt whether they will have any surplus at all. The average winter rainfall in California up to April 8 is eighteen nches; thus far this year they have not been plessed with more than nine inches, and the present month has been unusually dry. If he California farmers do not get considerale rain in the next two weeks their crops wheat and barley will be very poor indeed except in the limited districts are artificially supplied with water. Another fortnight of dry weather would reduce the crop of the Pacific coast to a matter of home consumption only, and take it altogether out of the problem of supplying the wheat-importing countries. It is, how ever, too early to predict a total failure of the crop in California, for a heavy rain in the early days of April, followed by a wet month, would save the crop, and probably make it all that the farmers had anticipated. This was the case in 1880.

The wheat crop on this side of the Rockies s not quite as promising as it was last year at this time. Some say the appearance of the plant ranges from ten to twenty-five per cent below the promise of this time last year. The course of the market does not, however, any apprehension a decreased crop. The countries of western Europe are undoubtedly depending upon Russia and British India, and if those countries should have bad crops the demand for our surplus would of course be sharp and strong. There is no question about the reduction of the acreage of winter wheat in both Great Britain and Germany, and if the California crop is a failure, wheat will command good prices even if Russia and India should have good crops.

THE CAMPAIGN.

AN ANNOUNCEMENT FROM MAJOR

In Which He States that He Would not Feel at Liberty to Decline a Nomination—The Charges Against Boynton—Opinions of the Press— The Conduct of the Campaign, Etc.

Mr. McDaniel may be considered positively in the race. The publication of the Boynton letters has given a good deal of interest to the canvass, and the lines are now more closely drawn than ever. The press and the people, however, seem to lean decidedly to Boynton though McDaniel is developing many friends. A member of the constitutional convention of 1865, which, it will be remembered, was a convention composed almost entirely of democrats, came nto THE CONSTITUTION office yesterday and stated that he was surprised that any objection should have been made to Governor Boynton's acceptance of the office in his county soon after the war, relai ing to the freedman's bureau.

The Attack on Governor Boynton.

THE ANIMUS OF THE ASSAULT, AND ITS NATURE ANA-

CARTERSVILLE, Ga., March 24, 1883.—Editors Constitution: It is to be regretted that Georgia seems fated to have an excited campaign over the vacant seat of our late honored governor. One would think that certain politicians have no sense of shame at the humiliating spectacle of a dirty scramble for office, almost at the bier of Stephens. The attack on Governor Boynton on account of certain letters written by him to Bullock seems intended to inflame an old prejudice which has happily almost passed away. This attack is instigated, not so much by an enmity to Boynton, as by an insatiable greed for office which spares nothing in its endeavors to attain the desired end. The very its endeavors to attain the desired end. The ver men who are resorting to this unfair—not to sa mean—method of warfare do not doubt, in their men who are resorting to this unitair—not to say mean—method of warfare do not doubt, in their own hearts, the democracy of Governor Boynton or his personal integrity. They are fully aware of his unstained political and private record. But to prejudice popular judgment, a resort is had to the time dishonored practice of mud slinging. This practice has nearly always missed its aim, and muddied only the slingers. The people of Georgia will not be blinded by such methods, and the "voice of God" will yet become "the voice of the people."

But, Messrs. Editors, when these letters are ex mined, they will be found to contain but three joints on which the office-hunters can train their 1. That Governor Boynton applied to a republi

1. That Governor Boynton applied to a republican governor for a judicial appointment.

2. That he referred to certain republicans as to his capacity to fill that position.

3. That he expressed a determination not to be a judge and a politician at the same time.

As to the first point, Boynton was at least in much good democratic company. How many democrats, true and tried, held office under a republican governor? Was there ever a purer democrat than Hiram Warner? Time clears the vision wonderfully: and we can see now how much better it would have been if our best citizens had filled the offices of trust and honor in the gloomy years following the war. The policy of "masterly inaction," of seclusion from politics, adopted by very many of our best men would, if persisted in, have left us almost at the mercy of the ruthless horde who came among us solely for plunder. It is well though we could not always see it then, that we had brave and true men who were not too much had brave and true men who were not too in fraid of popular clamor to serve their people there, equally brave and true, entertained differ-nt views. But after all the cooling time that has apped since 1868 the mind which cannot see at it was better to have good citizens, as our dges, even be they appointed by a republican of-eer, must have terribly heated by the prevailing ussion of that period—too heated, indeed, to see

But this question has been settled. When the presentatives of the people elected Joseph E. rown senator by such a large majority, they vir-lally declared that difference of opinion as to hat should have been our policy during recon-pression should not present them from the processing. striction should not prevent them from choosing a faithful public servant. Governor Boynton only ap-plied for a judicial appointment; Governor Brown was not only appointed chief justice by Governor Bullock, but acted with the republican party until as not only appointed the second party until an democratic party came to his views. Governor known makes a good senator and is the choice of a trge mejority of Georgia democrats for that position. Governor Boynton is an honest, capable entieman, and the people will not allow such apeals to prejudice to warp their judgment of the nan or the proprieties of the canvass.

"But," say the politicians, "Boy, ton referred to epublicans as to his character and fitness for the sostition of judge." In other words, to be a good lemocrat one must be estéemed incapable or distonest by republicans. The proposition is its own sufficient reply. They forget the treat man for whose place they are making such stremous efforts. Alexander H. Stephens was respected by all parties. He numbergreat man for whose place making such strenuous efforts. Stephens was respected by all parties, ed his friends among all classes and c es and conditi cially and politically; and even went so far as to secure office for republicans. The mud-slinger are office for republicans. The mud-sling we nothing by this argument except that G or Boynton was admired and esteemed even stly, do these valiant politicians wish a judge e an active political manager? Shall he drag ermine through the cesspools of politics? Do wish a democratic judge or a republican se? Or is it better to have a judge who shall be judge? Or is it better to nave a longer who shall be impartial between all men of all opinions, holding the scales with unbiased hands? What a spectacle to have seen Governor Boynton on the bench, "in-imical" to republicans, refusing them their rights, denying them protection, making law a mockery and justice a myth?

No, Messrs. Editors, these attacks are not made in structure. Their authors know the probity of superity.

No, Messrs. Editors, these attacks are not made in sincerity. Their authors know the probity of Boynton. They are aware of his genuine democracy. But the emergencies of the campaigu democracy. But the emergencies of the campaigu democracy. The popular verdiet is being recorded against their favorite, and mud-slinging, unjust and unfounded attack, vituperation and slander, are now used against this fair name. Nobody has attacked Major Bucon. He is a worthy gentleman; but his friends make a sad mistake when they resort to such offensive attacks as are being made. So think the people, at least, in Barrow.

B. Bullock there is contained nothing new to us, and that he applied to Governor Bullock for the position of judge of the Flint circuit at the earnest request of his people, and in response to the unanimous and expressed wish of bar of this circuit, who were directly in terested in a fair and honest administration of the law, and were well satisfied of his con stancy to his people and of his unswerving devo-tion to the principles of the democratic party. Governor Boynton has lived among us before, during and since the war, and as his countryme and neighbors, we do solemnly assert that at no time and in no campaign has he failed to be in the front ranks of those who were battling for the principles of honest government as represented by the organized democratic party, nor do we forget hat true as he was in the armies of the confe ate states, he was equally true and valiant in his votion to our party at the polls when Governor Bullock was a candidate for governor againt Gen-

"Resolved 3, That we know the circumstances of his accepting the position of what was known as Freedman's Bureau agent. The facts were these: Some person was required to accept this position, and the selection of an agent was left to our people. We assembled in mass meeting and requested our fellow citizen, James S. Boynton, to accept the place for our benefit, and he was willing to serve his people in this as in all other emergencies, although much against his will and to his personal disadvantage."

Hon. H. D. McDaniel.

From a private letter received in this city yester day from Hon. H. D. McDaniel we are permitted to make the following extract, which shows that he is make the following extract, which shows that he is a candidate: "The Athens Banner of to-day should contain a card from myself defining my position. There is no time for an active canvass, and the circumstances forbid such a course. But there is no reason that the people should not make their own choice through the convention, without dictation, or that the merits of many gentlemen should not be decorously discussed."

The following is the card referred to:
COVINGTON, GA., March 23, 1883.—Editor BannerWatchman: My attention has been called, whilst your recent article under the caption "Our First Choice for Governor." The compliment extended

Any man should be gratified to receive commendation so cordial and emphatic from the Banner-Watchman. Lest there be misunderstanding as to my attitude in the present race for governor, allow me to state it. The maxim of the fathers was that office at the hands of the people should be neither sought nor declined. I recognize the right of the people to require the services of the citizen to any position to which they may consider him adapted, and his duty to respond whenever circumstances permit. Since the death of the lamented Governor Stephens and the necessity for an election, friends in many counties have expressed a desire that I should enter the race. I could not know in the short time how general was the death of the governor, and the sorrows of the people. I could not consent to make a personal canvass for the succession. In response to letters and in conversation not intended for the public, I have presented this view, but have said that, while I did not wish to become a candidate, should the democratic convention, acting for the good of the party and the welfare of the state set it to nominate me.

sented this view, but have said that, while I did not wish to become a candidate, should the democratic convention, acting for the good of the party and the welfare of the state, see fit to nominate me, I would not feel at liberty to decline,

Of this card the Athens Banner says:
What we now want is new men and new measures. We must begin to purify our party if we hope for success in 1881, and now is the best time to make the start. You may scour the state of Georgia from the mountains to the seaboard, and not a more fitting man could be found to lead the reformation than Hon. Henry D. McDaniel, of Walton. He is a statesman, a patriot and a born ruler of men.

rom the Americus Republican Can anyone see a good reason why Judge Craw ord, General Cook and others of known ability ford, General Cook and others of known ability should not be nominated simply because they have been too modest to announce their names as candidates? We think not. In our opinion, neither Major Bacon nor Mr. Boynton are the choice of the people of this section. Still, as the matter now stands, a deiggation may be appointed for the one or the other. To be so restricted does not accord with our idea of a free people. We will therefore be pardoned for suggesting that a delegation be sent uninstructed.

BOYNTON AN EXAMPLE OF WORTHINESS.

From the Conyers Solid South.

Governor Boynton is one of the best lawyers in the state. He has been in legislature two consecutive terms, and is nowgovernor. Can a reason be given why he should not peaceably fill out the unexpired term? He has no higher aspiration than to faithfully and impartially administer justice. His whole life is an example of worthiness, and his judiciary decision prove his competency. If the ruce hand of discontent were to dismantle him of the gubernatorial robe under the conditions he so gracefully wears them it would render Georgia subject to a brand of unfaithfulness.

LET THE OLD REBELS RALLY FOR COOK. From the Convers Solid South.

LET THE OLD REBELS RALLY FOR COOK. From the Sumter Republican.

From the Sumter Republican.

We holst at our masthead to-day the name of General Phil Cook to fill the unexpired term of Hon. A. H. Stephens, as governor of Georgia, he having consented to become a candidate. As the general has been before the public for ten or twelve years as a congressman, the people of the state know him to be competent, honest, true and faithful in all things. He is the choice of the whole people of this section and as there is no reason why the race should be narrowed down to two whole people of this section and as there is no rea son why the race should be narrowed down to two men, we believe the general stands a better chance for the position than any man in the field. Let the old rebels rally around the general and give him a unanimous support and we'll put him in office with a rousing majority.

WHY BACON "RETIRED." from the Emanuel Reporter.

From the Emanuel Reporter.

We are unable to conceive by what process of reasoning many of out contemporaries and divers anonymous, rustic scribblers make themselves believe that Major A. O. 8acon "gracefully declined" to oppose Hon. A. H. Stephens in the nomination for governor last summer, and that he and his friends "warmly supported" our dead governor when it became known that he was the nominee. Bacon may never be governor of Georgia, but he is not a fool—therefore, he knew that he stood no chance to receive a the nomination over Stephens not a fool—therefore, he knew that he stood no chance to receive i the nomination over Stephens—and consequently he, like a sensible man, withdrew from the race. As between him and hoynton we are individually and emphatically in favor of the latter, no matter whether any one else is or not. Now mark the prediction. If Bacon is the nominee the cry from certain quarters will be that the nomination was fair, open and impartial. But if Boynton chances to be the lucky individual, voices from the same quarters will censure Brown. Gordon and Colquitt, the so-called Atlanta ring Give us bacon, and plenty of it, but spell it with a small b, if you please.

UNITE UPON BOYNTON. From the Savannah News, Ma ch 25.

While the governorship of Georgia is a prize worthy of the ambition of any of her sons, there are but two of those who seek it that appear likely worthy of the amoition of any of her sons, there are but two of those who seek it that appear likely to command any great measure of support. It would afford the people of south Georgia profound satisfaction if the nominee of the convention were selected from among the many capable gentlemen this section could present. Hon, itafus E. Lester, among others, would be particularly acceptable to our many readers, but he has, to the regret of his many admirers, declined to enter the race. Governor Boynton has thus far filled the office to which he has been called with dignity and ability. There is a wide-spread sentiment in favor of his being continued for the full term of his great predecessor. He is well qualified for the position, and, if assigned to it, will give the people a satisfactory administration. We cannot see that the people can do better than to permit the acting governor to become the actual executive. Public opinion is daily strengthening in favor of such a course, and the probabilities are that Governor Boynton will the choice of the coavention. The people do not desire a heated contest. Such a struggle is not likely to result; but the readily as of avoiding such is to unite upon Govern

The Boynton Letters

From the Columbus Times.

In another place we publish letters written in 1808 by Governor Boynton to Governor R. B. Bullock, asking for the appointment to the judgeship of the Flint circuit. These letters we give to our readers as matters of history, because we have no political favorites to whom we are so devoted that we are not willing to give to our readers every fact connected with their public lives that reaches us. We know the motives that moved men to act in 1868 can scarcely be appreciated by the men of 1883; but there were hundreds of patriotic, loval southern men living in those dark days who sought office, lot for personal aggrandizement, but to enable them to stand between their people and the ruling powers of a central government that we all then thought, and still think, was infinical to our people. It was not unfrequently the case that our best citizens would untite in a petition to governors and presidents to have certain conservative, fair, honest men appointed to serve the public. Neither these applicants nor their friends over supposed that a change of political faith was involved in these applications. The people of Georgia are too intelligent to be deceived by a hue and cry against Mr. Boynton, raised to forward some competing interest for office, and they are, at the same time, too patriotic and true to themselves and to their state, to support for high position, a man who is not in sympathy with them. They will examine thir matter for themselves, and decide it where it should be decided, in the democratic state convention.

who will manipulate his delegation in some of the counties in the state are as unpopular as they can be, because it is known that they wear his collar for personal service to them. If the democratic party find any good reason why they don't want to let Governor Boynton fill out the unexpired term of Governor Stephens, then in the name of the democratic party, and for the good of the party, let us turn our eyes to other men who will give strength and solidity. General Cook, W. E. Smith, George T. Barnes, H. D. McDaniel, J. B. Estes, N. L. Hutchins, W. A. Little, Allan Fort, W. H. Hammond, H. G. Turner, J. H. Blount, T. J. Simmons and more than a hundred men in Georgia are less objectionable and better able to be elected than A. O. Bacon. I give it as my indgment in this matter that Mr. Bacon caunot poll one-fourth of the democratic voters in north Georgia. His adherents have made themselves unpopular by their clamorous manner of election-erling. They insult men who disagree with them: in short by their clamorous manner of electioneer's they cleetioneer for him in that bransided a synthetic electioneer for him in that bransided a synthat clearly indicates that it is purely preceding around. We don't want such a man as that a genero of Georgia, and the people of his kate we vote for him.

Sense and Soberness from South Georgia. THE PEOPLE THE ONLY RING, BOYNTON THEIR CHOICE, AND SUREHEADS TO BE SWEPT UNDER.

From the Thomasville Times.

We presume that the two-thirds rule will be adopted by the convention. In that case, should Mr. Boynton fail to get the requisite two-thirds, (all the indications are that he will lead on the first ballot) and a protracted contest should ensue, then the dark horse might be brought to the front. In no other contingency will he stand a showing. Taking the state all over the preponderance appears to be decidedly in favor of Boynton. Mr. Boynton has no more legal or morat right to claim the office than has any other eligible citizen of the state; and yet there appears to be a general feeling that it would cause less jarring, would keep the wheels of government revolving with less friction, were Mr Boyn'on—who is already discharging the duties o, the office—continued during Mr. Stephens's term. The charge that he—or any other man—could be foisted on the people and state, by a ring is all b sh. There is too much intelligence, native manhood and independence 'mong the ranks of the democracy of this snate—stretching out and forming a line as they do, from the mountains to the seaboard, to be cajoled, hoodwinked and made tools of by a few men. No, if there is any ring in Georgia it is the people are generally right, The democrats in each county of the state will meet and send accredited, representative men to the Atlanta convention on the 10th day of April. These men, unawed by power, and standing high above the power of ciques and rings—if such there shall be—will nominate some true and tried Georgian. And when that nomination is made, all the howis about rings, about under influences, etc., will not, and cannot, prevent the people from ratifying the action of their delegates, at the poils on the 24th of the same month. This cry of 'Tring rule' has been raised in Georgia for the past who failed to get their favorites nominated; but the people, the masses, have stood by their conventions like neroes; and they will do it in April. BACON'S REPLY.

HIS PART IN THE PAST AND THE PRESENT TOLD BY HIMSELF.

wick Litigation-The Publication of the Boynton Letters-Bacon's Final Ples.

MACON, Ga., March 26th, 1883.-Editors Constitu tion: In the Evening Star, published in Atlanta, on the 24th inst., is an editorial containing express and implied charges against me which require a reply at my hands of no uncertain character. I therefore ask the privilege of making it through your columns over my own signature. I only rethat the shortness of the time will not permit me to state more fully and in person to the people in their several counties that which I will be compelled hurriedly to write. The extract from the Star is as follows:

Since this personal issue is raised it is only fair to say that if Governor Boynton is such a criminal for applying to a judgeship, what shall be said of a man who was the paid attorney of the Bullock administration? It is true that Governor Boynton saked to be appointed to a judgeship—a politically neutral position—in which he could serve his state with credit and honor to her and to himself, as other good democrats did. But he did not have an opportunity. He was not close enough to the governor. On the other hand Mr. A. O. Bacon had no small hand in the Macon and Brunswick railroad litigation, the crowning cause of protest against the Bullock administration. Was it as a bitter enemy and stalwart fighter of Governor Bullock? No, he appeared as Governor Bullock's earnest advocate. A BIT OF GEORGIA HISTORY.

A BIT OF GEORGIA HISTORY.

As ancient history seems to be the favorite study of the day a Star reporter thought he would dig through some of the records of the state house, and he found the following on page 141 of executive orders, issued by Governor Rufus B. Bullock:

ENECUTIVE DEFARTMENT, ATLANTA, Georgia, June 4,1871.—Whereas, a bill of injunction has been lately filed in Bibb superior court before his Honor Carlton B. Cole, who granted said bill of injunction enjoining the case of the Mhoon and Western railroad by the central Railroad and Banking Company: and whereas, the interests of the state of Georgia are largely affected by the said case, and it being therefore deemed essential that she should be fully represented by counsel in the litigation about to casue. Now, therefore, it is ordered that A. O. Baeon, of the city of Macon, and Hon. William Phillips, of the county of Cobb, be, and they are hereby authorized and empowered, to represent the state's interest before the courts incident to the aforesaid litigation.

So far as the foregoing editorial relates to Govenier of the courts of the state's interest before the courts incident to the aforesaid litigation.

So far as the foregoing editorial relates to Governor Boynton, I have nothing to say. I have had no agency direct or indirect in the procurement of the publication of the letters which gave rise to the article in question. I did not know that such letters were in existence, and had no knowledge of any single fact disclosed by them until they had become the common rumor of the street Friday vening last. So fer as the editorial in question relates to my-So fer as the editorial in question relates to myself, the charges are so ingeni unity mixed and confounded as to entirely mislead the reader as to the truth. The statement of the case as "the Macon and Brunswick railroad litigation" was doubtless intended as the Brunswick and Albany railroad litigation, over the Brunswick and Albany railroad and none over the Macon and Brunswick railroad. Accepting then this as an accidental error, I say that anyone reading the above extract would understand the charge made against me to be as follows: That the litigation in question was one in which the state was a party. That the extract would understand the charge made against me to be as follows: That the litigation in question was one in which the state was a party. That the validity and propriety of Governor Bullock's acts in connection with the construction of the road and the indorsement of the bonds of the company was the issue in the case, and that I was "the paid attorney of the Bullock administration" in that case, and that as such I defended the acts of the Bullock administration, and "anneared as Gov.

company was the issue in the case, and that I was "the paid attorney of the Bullock administration" in that case, and that as such I defended the acts of the Bullock administration, and "appeared as Governor Bullock's earnest advocate." This is certainly what the above extract means, and doubtless is the interpretation if was intended that the public should place upon it. It means this, or it means nothing. Such being the charge, I do not hesitate to say that there is not one word of truth in it. Is I might as well content myself with this denial and challenge my accuser to the proof, but the time is too short to permit of such a delay, and I will, therefore, myself state the facts of my connection with the Brunswick and Albany railroad litigation. I have nothing to conceal in it, and nothing to fear in the criticism of any unprejudiced person upon a statement of the truth.

The Brunswick and Albany railroad litigation was simply a contest among creditors over the assets of the railroad after the failure of the company. The bonds which had been issued by the company were secured by the alleged indorsement of the state, and by a mortgage on the railroad. The state having repudiated the alleged indorsement, the only security remaining as the mortgage. The state in consequence of such repudiation of the indorsement, had nothing to do with the case. The question of the validity of such indo-sement, was not a lisen on the railroad superior to other liens claimed by other creations. In confection with Judge Thomas J. Simmons I was employed to foreclose the mortgage on the railroad, and in legal effect it was the same as foreclosing a mortgage on a brick store in Macon or any other property, to enforce the payment of a promissory note secured in that way. It was a legitimate legal service in which we represented no interest that was either for the State or against the state. I repeat that the state had no connection with the litigation. I think it is true that in the early stages of the case the state had no connectio had no connection with the litigation. I think it is true that in the early stages of the case the state did have some counsel present to watch the course of the case until the question of repudiating the indorsement was decided by the legislature, but this was before the employment of Judge Simmons and myself to forclose the mortgage, and we had no connection with such employment on the part of the state, either for or against it. In fact we had no connection with the case and were not employed to represent the foreclosure of the mortgage until the summer of 1872, more than six months after Governor Bullock had abdicated and had left the state.

of the state, either for or against it. In fact we had connection be foreclosure of the mortgage until the summer of 1872, more than six months after fowering Hollock has absticated and had left at the recording time of 1872, more than six months after fowering Hollock has absticated and had left at the recording time of 1872, more than six months after fowering Hollock has absticated and had left at the recording time of the six of the thus filed. The original parties to the bill were represented by Messrs. Nisbet & Jackson and Messrs. Whittle & Gustin. By them I was informed that Governor Bullock had indicated to them his wish that the state be made a party to the bill, and had desired them to select counsel in Macon to represent the state, and that they had selected Clifford Anderson (now attorney general) and myself. Afterwards I learned that other counsel had also been employed to represent the state. The state's interest to be protected, was its liability on nearly two million dollars of bonds of the Macon and Brunswick railroad company, which had been indorsed by the state under an act passed during Governor Jenkins's administration, and which the state would have to pay(as she has since done, lift the Macon and Brunswick railroad company falled. The employment came to me through James Jackson, (now chief justice,) and L. N. Whittle, two men as pure and incorruptible as any the state can boast. We gained the case in the superior court, and lost it in the supreme court, although Judge McCay dissented. I assisted in the argument in both courts. After the conclusion of the case the amount of the fees to be paid to counsel was determined upon, but the money was never paid during the time Governor Bullock remained in office. After his abdication, and during the session of the legislature in November 1871, while Governor Conley was exercising the dnties of the office, I was notified by one of the secretaries of the executive department that the amount of the fees of counsel therefor proper, still the abdication of Governor Bullock had naturally caused a suspicion and distrist in the public mind as to all of the acts of his administration, and I determined that I would not receive the money until a democratic governor should have an opportunity of saying whether he considered such payment of any caused a suspicion and distrust in the public mind as to all of the acts of his administration, and I determined that I would not receive the money until a democratic governor should have an opportunity of saying whether he considered suck payment proper. I was satisfied that the payment of the fee was proper, but under the circumstances I was unwilling to be the judge in my own case. I therefore let the question remain in abeyance until the election of Governor Smith. It was then submitted by me to him. He decided that the fee was proper and paid me the money. Had Governer Smith decaded that the employment was not lightimate, and the see not proper, I would have surrendered the claim without a word. I could have had no other intention in refusing to receive it when it was offered to me. This was the only instance in which I ever represented the state during Governor Bullock's administration, and I never received a dollar for legal services either from him or his repuplican successor. I have never within my recollection represented a claim of any kind against it when it was offered to me. This was the only instance in which I ever represented the state during Governor Bullock's administration, and I never received a dollar for legal services either from him or his republican successor. I have never within my recollection represented a claim of any kind against the sate either before the courts or legislature.

When in a continuous public service of twelve years, my opponents are reduced to the necessity of manufacturing out of these circumstances such an unfounded charge as the present one, the public can judge how hard pressed they must be to find a flaw in my record.

There is still one other remark to be made on this editorial. In speaking of me as "the paid attorney of the Bullock administration," it is the evident design to represent me to the public as a retainer of Governor Bullock—a sort of uncommissioned office holder. The facts I have related show how gross a misrepresentation this is. I never sought office under Governor Bullock, and never desired any; and at the time when the republican party had offices to bestow in the state, my most earnest desire was to assist in throwing off the rule of aliens and in restoring the government to the keeping of our own people, to whom it belonged. The Bullock administration went into power ou the 21st day of July, 1868 Within a very few days thereafter the convention of the democratic party of the state, met in Davis hall in Atlanta. By it, without agency or procurment on my part, I was nominated as the democratic candidate for presidential elector or what was then the fourth congressional district. The succeeding weeks and months were those in which were to be distributed the offices of the state by the new administration. Those months I spent earnestly in adding the effort then being made to drive from power the republican party. I began on the first day of August at Clinton, and during the entire months of August at Clinton, and during the entire months of August at Clinton, and during the entire months of August.

Of these about 140,000 are of sandbag age. Of this 140,000 sand-bag contingent 70,000 individuals are of a timid nature and do not go out after dark. There remain. therefore, 70,000 adult males liable to be sand-bagged any night. But the newspaper returns show that no more than ten are sand-bagged upon any one night, orseventy in a week. On one occasion, when the present premier was acting as praepositor of his form, he onalited, either oy accident or from intention, to mark down the name of a school fellow who had been late for school. The late-comer was a friend of Gladstone's, and Dr. Keats chose to consider the omission as a willful fense. We will sell at auction Thursday, March 29th, at 4 p. m., the "Mulligan property," at the northeast corner of the Boulevard and Decatur street, and the "McNab" property, north of, and adjoining the other on the east side of the Boulevard. The first, fronting Decatur street, is divided into store lots, with a front each of 32½ feet, and extending back 120 feet to the McNab property. This division being made because of the advantages of this locality, from the thick settlement of nice residences about it, from its proximity to the Air-Line shops and cotton factory, and because the wagon roads from Kirkwood. Edgewood, Decatur and all the country around and beyond them, pass by it, giving parties an excellent chance to control a fine local and trancient trade, to say nothing of its publicity, from being on the Georgia and Air Line railroads, and on the most popular drive in the city, the Boulevard. pretty, new, three-room cottage, will be sold with the middle lot.

The McNab property, adjoining on the north is very choice property. It consists of two vaccant lots, earth 602124/5 feet, beautifully graded and elevated, and of one lot 65x124/5 feet, on which is a new stylish, well built, nicely furnished five-room brick residence, with hall, front and back verandas, and a nice latticed, covered walk to the fine well, close in the rear. During the past year there has been built a perfect town of new houses in that section of the city, and the spring shows the number still increasing rapidly. The Decatur street cars, which now stop at Youge street, will, it is believed, soon be extended beyond "Gartrell hill," to or beyond the Boulevard, and this done the property will at once go up in price and value. This sale will be absolute, and no "straw bids" made. Terms will be given at the sale. Free ride on Decatur street cars on day of sale from our office. Plats now ready at our office. NEW YORK, March 26. - Share speculation opene firm, and prices showed an improvement of 1/8 to 1/8 per cent over those of Saturday. During the eater part of the first hour of business the market continued firm, and a further advance of 1/8 to 3/8 per cent was recorded, led by Northern Pacific pre-ferred and Central Pacific, after which the market became ve y dull and heavy, and the general list fell off % to % per cent, the latter for Union Pacific, while Central Pacific broke to 761/2 from 781/2. Part of this decline was subsequently recovered, but the market again became dult and weak, and in the late dealing fell off 1/8 to 3/4 per cent, the latter fo Central Pacific, while St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba dropped to 156% from 157% at noon. The market closed steady, but compared with Saturday's closing quotations, the list is a fraction lower. Transactions aggregated 127,000 shares.

NEW YORK. March 26 -The Post's cotton ma ket report says: 'Future deliveries showed great weak ness to-day, and April to August inclusive sold 8@ 10-00 below the closing prices of last Thursday, The absence of news from the other side, large re-ceipts and continued offerings of long cotton greatly decreased the short interest and partly renewed short short sales sufficiently to account for the con-tinued and comparatively heavy decline. It gave more scope to profitable and quick turns and brought sales at 2 p. m up to about 10,000 bales. At the third call April brought 10.08, May 10.17, June 10.33, August 10.58, September 10.33, October 9.93@10, November 9 99, December 10.01."

Letter From a Traveler.

Kansas City, Mo., Sept 29, 1882.

I think it a duty I owe to humanity to say what your remedy has ane for me. One year ago I contracted a ad case of blood disease, and not knowing the result of such troubles. I allowed it to run on for some time, but finally applied to the best physician in this city, who treated me for six months. In that time I took over 600 pills of protodide of murcury, y grain each, and had run down in weight from 210 to 167 pounds, and was confined to my bed with Mercurial Rheu satism, scarcely able to turn myself in bed Being a traveling man, some of the fraternity found me in this deplorable condition, and recommended me to try your specific.

commenced the use of it with very littuse. I commenced the use of it with very little faith, and in less than three weeks was able to take my place on the road. The sore and copper-colored spots gradually disappeared, and to-day I have not a sore or spot on my person, and my match the sore or spot on my person, and my match the sore or spot on my person, and my match the sore or spot on my person, and my match the sore or spot on my person, and my match the sore or spot on my person, and my match the sore or spot on my person. peared, and to-day I have not a sore or spot on my person, and my weight is 217 pounds, being more than it ever was. I do not wish you to publish my name, but you may show this letter to any who doubt the merit of S. S. S., for I know it is a sure cure. Yours truly, J. H. B.

Some thirty years ago there lived in Montgomery, Ala., a young man who was terribly afflicted. After being treated for a long trme by the medical profession of this town with no benefit, he commenced taking S. S. S. After persistently taking it two months he was cured. Being acquainted with him for twenty years thereafter, I can testify that the disease never made its return.

By Telegraps NEW YORK, March 26, -Share speculation opened firm, and prices showed an improvement of 1/6 to % per cent over those of Saturday. During the greater part of the first hour of business the market continued firm, and a further advance of 1/8 to 3/8 per cent was recorded, led by Northern Pacific pre-ferred and Central Pacific, after which the market came ve y dull and heavy, and the general list fell off 1/8 to 3/4 per cent, the latter for Union Pacific, while Central Pacific broke to 761/2 from 781/2. Part of this decline was subsequently recovered, but the market again became dult and weak, and in the late dealing fell off 1/2 to 3/4 per cent, the latter for Central Pacific, while St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba dropped to 1561/2 from 1573/4 at noon. The market closed steady, but compared with Saturday's closing quotations, the list is a fraction lower Transactions aggregated 127,000 shares.

Ftock on han 1 . The following is our comparative statement:

NEW YORK, March 26 -The Post's cotton ma ket report says: 'Future deliveries showed great weak ness to-day, and April to August inclusive sold 8@ 10-00 below the closing prices of last Thursday, The absence of news from the other side, large re-ceipts and continued offerings of long cotton greatly decreased the short interest and partly renewed short short sales sufficiently to account for the continued and comparatively heavy decline. It gave nore scope to prontable and quick turns and brought sales at 2 p. m up to about 10,000 bales. At the third call April brought 10.08, May 10..7, June 10.33, August 10.58, September 10.33, October .93@10, November 9 99, December 10.01."

REMARKABLE

Letter From a Traveler.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept 20, 1882.

I think it a duyl owe to humanity to say what your remedy has an efor me. One year ago I contracted a sad case of blood disease, and not knowing the result of such troubles. I allowed it to run on-for some time, but finally applied to the best physician in this city, who treated me for six months. In that time I took over 600 pills of protodice of murcury, 34 grain each, and had run down in weight from 210 to 157 pounds, and was confined to my bed with Mercurial Rheu wastism, scarcely able to turn myself in bed Being a traveling man, some of the fraternity found me in this deplorable condition, and recommended me to try your specific. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept 20, 1882.

coudi ion and recommended me to try your specific, as they knew of specific to the commenced the use of it with very little faith, and in less than three weeks was able to take my place on the road. The sores and copper-colored spots gradually disappeared, and to-day I have not a sore or spot on my person, and my weight is 217 pounds, being more than it ever was. I do not wish you to publish my name, but you may show this letter to any who doubt the merit of S. S. S., for I know it is a sure cure.

Yours truly,

J. H. B.

Some thirty years ago there lived in Montgomery, ala., a young man who was terribly afflicted. After being treated for a long trme by the medical profession of this town with no beneft, he commenced taking 8. S. S. After persistently taking it two months he was cured. Being acquainted with him for twenty years thereafter, I can testify that the disease never made its return.

A Missing Maiden.—Miss Hattie Macvers is the name of a young maiden of Tennessee who clandessteely left her home, which is near Cieveland, Thursday night last, and landed in Atlanta Saturday. Miss Macvers is about fifteen years of age and is rather large for her years. She has a heavy suit of jet black hair which she wears generally in curis, and has black eyes. Her father reached Atlanta Sunday afternoon and aided by a detective spent sunday night and yesterday searching for her. No due to her whereabouts has yet been obtained, but fir. Macvers is certain that his daughter is in Atlanta. It is presumed that she eloped with a Louis-fille drummer, as she left Chattanooga in company with one who has been paying attention to the found lady for sometime past.

This surprised Mr. Clarke, but upon entering his room his surprise was greatly hereased at the appearance of things. The bureau drawers were open and their contents scattered about the floor. This disorder was finusual and Mr. Clarke proceeded to investigate. His investigation resulted in disclosing the fact that an old diver watch, a pair of new shoes, pair of pautaloons and a hat were gone. Mr. Clarke is not certain whether he neglected to lock he door or whether the thief got in with a false key. At any rate his loss will amount to about the form.

HE IS HERE AGAIN.

And He is the Man Who Wickedly Tampers With the Sacred Juryman.

The announcement that the case of the United tates vs. William H. Howard, charged with robbing the mails, would be called yesterday attracted a large crowd of spectators to the district courtroom. At ten o'clock the case was called, but was passed until Thursday next. It was rumored that an effort had been made on the part of some friend or friends of the defendant to bribe some of the twenty-four men selected from whom to strike a jury for the trial of the case. Judge McCay was made acquainted with this fact and immediately called in the grand jury which had been impaneled, and con-sisted of Messrs Andy P. Stewart, foreman; James E Williams, John N. Fain, William H. Clark, John M. Hill, Absolom T. Fleming, Thomas G. Healy, Calvin C. Archer, Martin Butler, Benjamin Camp-William Harden, Benjamin Holbrook, John Simons, Edward Rucker, M. F Whitlock, F. R. Barford, Isham Lewis and Holcomb H. Glenn, and deliver-

Isham Lewis and Holcomb H. Glenn, and delivered the following charge:

"Gentlemen: I learn with shame and mortification that attempts have been made corruptly to influence the juries in this court. You should investigate this matter speedily. I give it to you in especial charge. If there are men who have been attempting to influence the juries summoned and in attendance on this court, and a verdict of a jury finds them goilty. I promise you I will give to such men the full penalty of the law. This conduct was reported to me, not only at the last term, but at this term. It is an outrage on the very existence of society itself. If we cannot depend on the sworn jurors of the country on whom can we depend for the en'orcement of the laws and for the protection of life and property. I do not wish to discuss this matter further, I have thought it my duty to call your attention to this matter and I trust you will investigate it thoroughly."

Judge McCay at once dismissed the first panel and had another drawn. The grand jury has taken the matter in hand and will make a thorough investigation of the charges.

THE GOVERNOR'S HORSE GUARD.

THE GOVERNOR'S HORSE GUARD An Election of Officers Ordered to be Had on Next Sat-

The experiment of organizing a cavalry company in Atlanta seems to have succeeded without any trcuble. The enterprise is in the hands of men who are determined to make a success of it. An application was made to the governor for an order to elect officers of the new company, and yesterday the following address to each of the enrolled members of the company was issued by the acting officials of the organization:

Special order No. 9; Adjutant-General's Office, Atlanta, Ga., March 26.-An election will be held at Atlanta, Fulton county, Georgia, on Saturday 31st day of March, between the hours of o'clock p.m. and 10 o'clock p.m. for a captain to mmand the Governor's Horse Guard. Said elec Cathedral-At the Two Catholic Churches -Rare and Exquisite Piowers, Etc.

"Easter" is suggestive of a bright and genial day, erisp enough to be bracing, mellow enough to be pleasant. Sunday was far from being such a day. Saturday night the rain poured down and Sunday morning the sun came up behind clouds that hung th eateningly overhead. They were very wet looking clouds that seemed ready to come down in a lump at a moment's notice.

The churches, however, had epared for such interesting Easter services that the weather did not intimidate the people. The congregations were very large at all the ser churches. The day was one long to be remembered churches will be found fully described below.

churches. The day was one long to be remembered in spite of the weather. The services at the different churches will be found fully described below.

AT ST. FHILLP'S EPISCOPAL CHURCH.

On entering St. Philip's church Sunday morning the spectaclethat met the eye was one exquisitely beautiful. The chancel, the pulpit and the choir place was a wealth of flowers arranged in a truly artistic man ner. Fully fitty callas raised their graceful heads from amid a profusion of flowers of bright colors. The arrangement was artistic and not without meaning. To the front of the chancel railing exactly at the head of the center alsie a faldstool was placed which was surmounted by a floral cross and below the cross was still another cross on wnic. was a floral crown. Upon the chancel railing gwas a second cross and upon the reredos was a third floral cross. The three crosses represented the Trinity. Upon the pulpit rested a four her cross, and the four crosses were exceedingly handsome. It was intended to represent the Irinity in one. The four crosses were exceedingly handsome. The first, which rested upon the faldstool, was made of Marshai Ney roses, calla inites and the teautiful and rare flower called the velled num. The second cross while rested upon the chancel railing was composed of pure, snow-while camelia, white itiaes and calla illies. The third cross, which rested upon the rested upon the pulpit was of red roses, rose buds and other flowers. The front of the rested upon the pulpit, was of red roses, rose buds and other flowers. The front of the pulpit was decorated with flowers in waiters and garlands of smilax and bridal wreath. Exactly beneath the cross on the pulpit was a beautiful cross of pure white snowdrops, the gift of an invalid lady who was prevented from attending the services, but who sent her offering. The eagle lectern was almost completely surrounded with flowers—callas, geraniums and ivy. The font was a wealth of flowers—roses, growing calla lilies, wisteria, ivy and bridal wreath. Bishop Beckwith made a few remarks. He spoke of his throat affection, and stated that his physician had ordered that he refrain altogether from making any public addresses. It was the first time that he had had an opportunity to be with st. Philips since the completion of the new chirch. He spoke of the great and commendable energy displayed in the erection of the handsome edifice. He took it as an evidence of new life in the congregation. He believed that St. Philip's could become a leader and the model among the parishes of the diocese. He hoped that not another year would pass before the church would be as it could be, the most powerful and the leading church in the diocese, with the largest congregation and the largest confirmation class. The cold imation of a class of twenty-five followed his remarks. At the conclusion of this impressive rite, the communion ceremony followed and concluded the exercises.

ATST. LUKE'S CATHEDRAL.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, orcises.

Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, long before the hour for services, St. Luke's cathedrai was crowded. The decorations of the church were beautiful. On the left of the chancel were the words: "Our Passover," on the right "Sacrificed for Us." In front of the chancel suspended between the arches were the words: "He is risen." Outside of the chancel and to the extr me right in front of the vestry was the inscription, "The third day He shall rise." The three windows in the rear center of the chancel were handsomely decorated. Near the top and bottom of the middle window crosses were suspended and between the two were the letters, "I H S." In the center of either side window were beautiful wreaths. A wreath of orange blossoms and calla lilies decked the pulpit. The organ, chorester stand and the various gas jets were likewise decorated. Immediately across the center window in the rear of the church was a large cross of evergreens and calla lilies. The ATST. LUKE'S CATHEDRAL. was a large cross of evergreens and calla lilies. The decorations of the church and altar were tastefully decorations of mechanic and aloar were discinuly arranged. Promptly at 11 o'clock services began, the choir singing the processional hymn, "Onward Christian Soldiers." Although the choir has been organized only a few weeks, the singing was as fine as ever heard in Atlanta.

Too much praise cannot be paid Mrs. T. B. Bin-yon, the organist, who has worked hard to perfect the choir for the occasion, and she may feel assured that her labors have been crowned with success. The choir was composed of Messrs. Cady, Jarvis, Foy and Boyce, and Masters Harry Cady, Willie Webb, George Fost, Beverly Wrenn, Willie Walker. R. A. Ellis, Arthur Boyce.

The following is the programme of exercises observed in the morning:

He also impressed upon the minds of his hearers that the body is not the man, neither is the soul; that the two combined makes a man what he is, and if evil thoughts are cherished in the soul, the body will work evil deeds and evil deeds in the body destroys the soul. Through life the two are companions and so true is it, that even in early childhood the features of the soul are stamped upon the body and in a course of time will be imprinted on the face; in touching tones impressed on the minds of his hearers the great importance of starting in early life in the true path to seek Him whose only begotten Son died that we might life Addressing his audience on this point, he continued: "He can lead the prodigals unto God, their failter. The tenderness, the pity, the ineffable compassion of Jesus Christ, was the express image of the love of the eternal fatherhood of God. Every lesson which came from his divine lips, every deed of His divine mercy was the new revelation of God in Jesus Christ. The love, in which had room for all who were weary and heavy laden, gave to men the highest seat which God could give by His death upon the cross. It was the infinite testimenty of the infinite law of an infinite God. It was the way that this infinite law provided that God could be just and the justifier of all who believe in Jesus. CHURCH OF THE IMMACCLATE CONCEPTION.

One who had Just risen. The shrines of the Biessed Virgin and St. Joseph, on either side, were also decorated in a manner corresponding to the high altar.

High mass was celebrated by Father Joseph Heidenka mp. S. J., whose sonorous voice resounded through the structure as an echo of Christian triumph. From the choir the refrains came at first soft and low, but as the narrative of the mass proceeded, and the Gloria in Excelsis, first sang by heavenly hosts, was reached, the richness of voice and harmony of sound burst forth into such a song of joy as to arouse ecstacy even in the heart of a callous listener. At the Credo, as well as the Consecration, the skill of instrument and voice were equally noticeable. Mrs. Madden was at the organ, while filling the different leading voices were Madame Werner, Miss Maggie Savage, Mr R. H. McCrystal, Mr. Spiro, Mrs. Dykeman, Mrs. Weems 'Miss Gardner, Miss Luddy, Miss Sheehan and Miss Jentzen. To particularize voices in public worship is not always the best of taste, but it may be said, with perfect propriety, that the music as a whole was complete, sweet and harmonious

Father Joseph H. idenkamp preached on the necessity of faith, and the resurrection as a test for that faith. When Christ had risen from the dead he appeared to but few, as he wished the world to accept his resurrection with a spirit of faith. A man to whom every thing has to be proven by material fact cannot claim the merit of faith. Enlarging on this idea, the reverend gentleman branched out into the necessity of believing the truths taugh by Christ and of conforming their lives to His.

he congregation was large, completely filling the church. At night vespers were sung, many of the same voices being engaged. The effect of the decoration were heighthened by the numerous jets of gas, making the figure of the Assumption, spreading out over the nigh altar, appear as a glimpse through the clouds into heaven

He Took Gin. Sunday General Tom Thumb walked down from his room in the Kimball house, and ordered gin. It his room in the Kimball house, and ordered gin. It was sent for. Then the general walked over to the cigar stand to Joe Caldwell, planted down a quarter and took two twelve-and-a-half centers. He lit one and went behind the hotel counter and chatted with the clerks. Said the general:

"I never like to stop at a hotel where I can't come down and bother the clerks."

Speaking of the Newhall fire, he said:

"I am still nervous from that fire. Hereafter I take no chances. Really in a situation like that a man of my size has no showing at all."

Mr. and Mrs. Thumb have a room on the second floor overlooking Wall street. It is in the corner next to the railroad block.

Was She Kidnapded?

Colonel Caldwell says that he intends to pro ecute Mr. Allen, of Dallas, who married Miss Tennie Caidwell secretly Friday, and that he will also prosecute Mr. Bullock, who helped to "abduct" her, as the colonel calls it. The young lady is at home very sick, and her mother is prostrated by the shock occasioned by the announcement of her daughter's secret marriage. The groom is nearly 60 and the bride is 22.
